Summer School To Begin June 22; H. O. Russell Is Dean

By ROBERT SWANSON

Santa Ana junior college's summer school will begin sessions June 22 and will extend to July 31, it was announced today. Registration will be held at College Hall on the two days following commencement exercises, June 19 and 20.

H. O. Russell, dean of the summer session, said that he expected a large attendance this year in view of the numerous inquiries received from all parts of the county.

For the college courses, a registration fee of $2.50 is charged while tuition amounts to 3.50 for each unit of credit. A maximum of six college units may be carried during the summer session.

Tuition for one high school unit costs $17.50, although a half unit costs $10. A maximum of one unit can be earned. Laboratory fees are extra in both high school and junior college courses.

Doctor McAulay Will Be Speaker At Baccalaureate

One hundred and fifty-two jaysee sophomores will attend the baccalaureate services to be conducted in the First Methodist church Sunday, June 14, it was announced this morning.

Academic processions will file into the building at 4:30 p.m. to begin commencement week activities. The graduates will be clothed in caps and gowns.

Dr. Robert Burns McAulay, pastor of the Orange First Presbyterian church and faculty member of the Occidental College staff, has been obtained to deliver the sermon. Several musical selections will be presented by the music department under the direction of Miss Myrtle Martin, head of the music department.

Allan A. Revill, local music instructor, will give several organ numbers throughout the service.

Mrs. Eleanor Northercross, Miss Mabel G. Whiting, and Dean of Men Calvin C. Flint are members of a committee that formulated the plans and details of the baccalaureate service.

Local Students Win Honors

Katherine Belle Bolton, local honor student, received notice today that she has been awarded the Alpha Gamma Sigma scholarship award to the University of Redlands. The scholarship includes the entire tuition fee for one year to the university. She plans to enter the institution next fall.

Richard Foster, another honor student, was informed this week that he had received honorable mention in the Chicago university competitive examination. Fourteen scholarships were awarded in the entire country, and it was learned that he had placed seventeenth in the list. This was the only honor given to a student in any California school.

Credits earned in the summer school will be entered upon the high school or junior college records as in regular terms; credits are recognized fully by the universities, Mr. Russell declared.

Regular junior college instructors will be supplemented with an addition from the high school faculty. Other facilities will also be maintained.

Included among the instructors who will hold classes are Lella B. Watson, G. B. Holmes, John H. McCoy, H. W. Goodwin, Frances Egge, L. L. Beeman, Edward Nealey, Thomas H. Glenn, Etta M. Conkle, and H. O. Russell, dean of the summer school.

Folders describing the summer session in detail are available to all students in the junior college office.

Santa Ana Country Club To Be Site Of Jaysee Banquet

Betty Lee, social commissioner, said today that the annual junior college banquet will be held at the Santa Ana Country Club Wednesday evening, June 17, with a Spanish theme carried throughout the program. The affair will be formal.

More than 150 students are expected to attend the dinner and the program of music and varied phases of school activity. Tickets for the banquet, scheduled for 6:30 p.m., will be 50 cents to Associated Student ticket holders and $1 to others. Jaysee alumni are especially invited, it was announced.

Although only 125 were present at last year's formal, the attendance of the coming dinner should be greatly augmented due to the fact that there will be no examinations the following day, Miss Lee said.

During the evening's program, track, golf, wrestling, and tennis winners will be awarded to athletic winners for the past semester. Aiding Miss Lee in her preparations for the forthcoming event are Director D. K. Hammond and Dean of Men Calvin C. Flint.

A. J. Crookshank Tells Of Early Days 50 Years Ago

By PETER PLUMB

"I am going back next fall and find out just how I missed my horse," declared A. J. Crookshank in telling of his famous experience of being "lost" in the mountains near Mt. Shasta last October. Mr. Crookshank who is very well acquainted with the country surrounding Shasta stated that at no time did he believe himself lost after he had become separated from his horse and party.

Realizing that without his horse it would be suicide to return to camp seven miles away, Mr. Crookshank trudged to a ranger's outlook several miles distant.

"I thought that I would be able to telephone to camp from there, but because of the heavy storms the night before the line was dead and the only thing to do would be to await help," he revealed.

Safe During Search
It was three days before aid finally arrived, but Mr. Crookshank was probably safer with an ample store of provisions and shelter than were the searching party braving the wintry snows.

A tall, aristocratic type of man with a kindly, humorous countenance, A. J. Crookshank has par-

Youth

The following editorial comment by the editor of the Orange Daily News presents a number of worthwhile thoughts on a subject that should be of interest to every junior college student:

There was published recently a news picture of several young gentlemen of Princeton surrounding a field piece on the campus. The captain described them as national officers of the Veterans of Future Wars.

The intended satire can be accepted by veterans' organizations with good humor if it is considered what the young gentlemen themselves would do in the event of war. From their pictures, they appeared well fed, fashionably clothed and possessed of the amount of animal spirit appropriate to their age. They were, in fact, exactly the type of young men who would rush to the recruiting office on the declaration of war.

That is the baffling thing about war. We elders measure the cost and weigh the horrors, insist on the futility of war and preach the virtues of peace. To what end? When the trumpet sounds, youth rushes to the standards that promise adventure.

So we, who were the youth of another day, who worked the guns now standing silent on the college campus, need not feel too badly because young college gentlemen make irreverent gestures at our organizations. It is ten to one that they are the very ones who will take the places where we once stood in rank.

And so all the high sounding sentiment that is preached, even in high places, about the new viewpoint of youth and the new responsibility which youth accepts is largely bunk. Youth varies little in outlook from one generation to another. Idealism is not the special possession of any single generation of youth. Love of adventure is as inseparable from the young of today as it ever was from the young of any period. It happens to be the sure defense of the realm. All our wisdom to the contrary.

Such remarks are timely at commencement time as another group of young people leave the campus to take their place in the world. The editorial gives us a definite picture of how youth looks to our elders.

GETTING SENTIMENTAL

It is with the greatest of reluctance that this last column is written. Saying good bye and all that sort of stuff is fun in a way, but down underneath it is not always so pleasant. When one realizes that no more will he go to such and such a class, that no more will he shoot the breeze between periods, that no more will he attend this meeting or that, or that no more will he work on the dear old college paper, a big lump kind of gets in his throat which refuses to go down with the first swallow. Although we all stoutly deny any affection for classes or school work on the whole, I am of the opinion that more than one of the graduates will catch themselves feeling kind of sentimental about the old 'Alma' more than once in the near future, unless they are careful.

Of course I know that during exams there will be no excess love for the college displayed, but then who ever did care for these necessary evils?

THANKS A MILLION

At this time I would like to take the opportunity, on behalf of El Don, to express my utmost gratitude and appreciation to the administration for the fine way in which they have cooperated with us throughout the year. This may sound stilted, as such things always do, but we mean it. Never has the administration raised one word of complaint against our policies or have they censored anything printed. On the contrary, several have even complimented El Don

THE FUTURE

I wonder how many of us who are planning to go on to a university will be doing as well as Robert Tannenbaum, last year's Student Prexy for the first semester. Bob got a scholarship to the University of Chicago, and took his comprehensives in April which he passed, making him a senior. They have a plan at that school so that you can take your exams whenever you wish, and if you pass them you are promoted a year. Many other graduates from last year are doing equally well, but I won't take time to name them all. I am sure some of those receiving scholarships this year will also do their part to uphold the honor of Santa Ana.

Well, "time's a wastin'" and the space allotted me has been filled once more. My only hope

I went to the barber the other day to get a haircut. I had heard little remarks behind my back about sheepherders and violin players.

Little did I realize when I told the barber I wanted it cut about half as long as it was that he would practically scalp me, or at least make me appear as though I were going to enter a monastery or double for Stan Laurel.

It made me feel rather light headed and twitty at first, but soon I began to realize the advantages of a close trim. It changes the entire physiognomy from neck to nodule. The ears appear in a slightly different position and the forehead is broadened. Kid, it just does something to you! Besides, it is cool and easy to comb. In fact, when you use a comb you flatter yourself. It takes away that wan look you get from staying up all night writing term papers and having nightmares in class the next day about finals. All in all, a short haircut is the only thing at this time of the year.

By the way, could you tell me the name of some good hair growing tonic?

• A Symbol of horse and buggy days—

Dobbin's Hitching Post Still Stands

By ROBERT SWANSON

Santa Ana's "horse and buggy days," memorialized at Wednesday's fiftieth anniversary celebration, are still a reality.

True, the horse and buggy are gone but their inseparable companions, the hitching posts, still remain on the streets of this city as vestiges of the older Santa Ana.

No check as to the actual number of them left has been made so far as is known.

The Orange County Historical society has no information on the subject, nor apparently has any other group here. But, by no means, are the hitching posts forgotten by Terry Stephenson, president of the historical society, and old timers of the city.

County treasurer Stephenson recalled the days when the streets were over-run with them, and when every home had its own private hitching post—just as today every home has its garage.

In that era, there were hitching posts of every variety, but today only the iron ones remain. The wooden ones have all disappeared.

When the typical board walks of the frontier Santa Ana were finally removed in favor of cement walks the conventional type of hitching post was not replaced. Instead, large iron rings were imbedded in the cement; as a result, today some of them can be seen in front of the busiest places in the city.

There came a traffic problem with the advent of the bicycle. The new vehicles were so tremendously popular that the downtown curbs would be so lined with them on a busy day that there was no room for the horse and buggy.

Mr. Stephenson recalled that he rode a bicycle regularly to the only high school in the county which was located where the present Y. M. C. A. building now stands. At that time the court house was located on Fourth street between French and Spurgeon. A livery stable was situated where the West Coast theater

THE CUB SEZ:

—And it won't be LONG now—I'll miss getting the inside DOPE on you and you and ESPECIALLY YOU next YEAR—but just the same I'll be wondering if JIM Barry and JANE are still that WAY—if TINY Berkner is as POPULAR as ever—if BILL Dunston is retaining that INTEREST in FRENCHIE—if CLIFF and PHYLIS are seeing the high SPOTS together—if BUTTERWORTH returned to Santa Ana just to be near EVELYN Hammatt—if KAY Blake, JACK Wallace—EVELYN Coffman, BILL Graupensberger—ADELIA McVey, BOB Ramm are enjoying life—if CORA ALICE Powell is happily settled—if RAY Foster has gotten over asking DORIS ASHER SHIELDS for a date the week before her SURPRISE wedding—if DICK Foster still holds the same high respect for CEMETERIES—if JEAN KAY Gaston had a grand time in the ORIENT—if BARTLETT STILL thinks what I think he thinks about EL SERAPE—if VIRGINIA Motley and DICK Shepherd are touring the town together—if JEAN Strahle retained that TAN—and if LOUISE Sexton likes U. S. C.—

DURING the course of the year I have failed to mention NINETY-SEVEN "super-scoops" on my friends—if you are one of the lucky 97—I apologize—if you're not—I apologize—for in this dirt business—it's practically impossible to say the RIGHT thing at the RIGHT TIME—but anyway to ALL of you good luck and best wishes and may you appreciate your JAYSEE friends one-half as much as I appreciated and enjoyed mine—the CUB—(RUTH Warner.)

is now located.

Then came the invention and popularization of the automobile, and the hitching post together with the horse and buggy gradually disappeared from active service.

Today hitching posts may be found at practically any place in Santa Ana. There are nearly a dozen in the vicinity of the junior college. Bush street, Orange ave. Ninth street, are a few of the streets where they may be seen. The city park is surrounded.

One is located in front of the Bowers museum. Three or four are on Main street between the museum and the junior college.

On eighth street—just across the street from the Baptist church—is a hitching post that was once used by Mr. Stephenson when he lived at the corner of eighth and Main.

You are entering a baffling world, full of confusion. You are going to have a difficult time making decisions and judging real values in life. I hope your experience in college has taught you to do your own thinking and to take a long-time view of events. Our very ideals of Democracy are in jeopardy. It devolves upon you and your generation to see to it that no backward step is taken. Regardless of present emergencies and the serious plight of youth, may you as citizens strive to preserve and perfect the fundamental ideals upon which our government is founded and be worthy of the confidence we have in you.

Honolulu Ramblings

By DOROTHY RYAN
El Don's Traveling Correspondent

VI. VACATION TIME

HONOLULU, T. H., June 1, (Via China Clipper)—I am going to try to get this to ye Editor Bandick in time for the final edition of El Don, and I have been thinking for weeks what I could write and what you would be most interested in. I am not so good at that particular thing (thinking) so, on June 1, I start my column which is to run in the June 5 paper.

Since vacation is so near at hand, I know a lot of you are trying to figure out where you would like to go this summer. I am not a press agent for this place, but I think it is the grandest place anyone could find to pass a few months. Right now the shower trees are in bloom; they are huge masses of pink blossoms with an occasional sprig of green mixed in.

The mynah birds are getting saucier than ever before. These are birds about the size of robins which screech and scream all day long, but no one seems to mind them. They spend most of their time out in the middle of roads, and when a car gets within several feet of them, they just walk out of the way. They can't be bothered to fly out of the way, they walk. They even play tag with street cars, and to this day I have never seen one hit.

Over in this neck of the woods, they don't have hot dog stands. The national dish is Sai min and meat on the stick. The Sai min is noodles, and green onions, fishecake, and pieces of pork, and what have you in a clear savory soup. The meat on the stick is just what its name indicates. Small pieces of meat are barbecued over a charcoal burner, dipped in some kind of spicy mixture and served on the stick. Both are delicious, and are made only by the Japanese. Their stands are frail little outfits made mostly of a light framework of wood and strips of brightly colored bunting. Sai min is sold for 10 cents, and meat on the stick for 5 cents. The only way you can eat Sai min is with chop sticks, so if you are coming over, better start practicing with them.

Coming back to home, I guess all of you are thrilled because you won't have to crack any books for another three months, and you can have lots of fun, but somehow jayee won't be the same after you sophomores are graduated, and loads of green freshies, like myself, come in and try to take your places. You were all swell, and I am glad I came to know as many of you as I did in the short time I was there.

Some of you will be getting married, and to you I wish all of the happiness and contentment in the world. Some of you are taking positions in business and to you I would wish great success. Then, to you who are going on to universities, I sincerely desire that each accomplish many things, each in his chosen field.

Since my final column for this year must come to an end, let me finish it by saying I hope every person in the college, teachers, students, and Mr. Collins and Mr. Flint, have a grand, exciting vacation.

JOHN HENRY SAYS--

SWAN SONGS NOW
ORDER OF DAY

Time for the present staff of El Don to sing their swan song has arrived. With the circulation of today's copy of the paper, they will have completed their work for the year. Seems to this department that the names of the members of the staff appeared in print occasionally so we decided to give thanks where it is felt that a few are due.

Had it not been for such ace writers as Duncan Clark, Tay Riggs, Frank Guthrie, and Kenneth Nissley, yours truly would have been behind the proverbial eight ball many times this past year in gathering all the sporting news around the local campus. They, along with Miss Gerrie Griffith, who has covered women's activities, and Cartoonist Armand Hanson, who has added plenty to the page through his sketches at various times, have played an important part in the issuing of the sport news for the year.

ERRORS—WE'VE MADE A PLENTY OF THEM

El Don sports page has been guilty of gross error some times this season and we up here in the sports department feel that we should correct one or two of them. In an early edition of the paper we mentioned the Notre Dame football aggregation and termed them 'The green and white clads from South Bend.' We were verbally chastised some weeks later in a letter from that city which revealed to us that the colors of the 'fighting Irish' were not green and white, but were blue and gold. We thought all Irish schools held the famous wearin' of the green practice.

AGAIN ARISES

Another mistake which we are purported to have made concerns baseball at the local campus. We stated that the baseball aspirants disappeared after the heat of the first discussions had died; however, we are told by El Don's own Tay Riggs that rather than this being the case, actually the aspirants were told that there was positively no chance for the men to have a team so they decided to do a graceful back up. May we suggest that someone take it upon himself to start the battle for funds early next year so that Davie Don may again be represented in the race for the conference diamond flag.

Admittedly the sports department has made mistakes aplenty this year, but we still insist that

Athletic Emblems
Will Be Presented
At Annual Banquet

Fifty-four athletes will be awarded letters at the annual graduation banquet to be held at the Santa Ana country club on June 17, it was revealed here today by athletic commissioner Bill Dolan.

Five different branches of school athletics will be represented by the horde of sport lovers. Basketball, swimming, tennis, track, golf, and wrestling monograms will be presented sometime during the program, Dolan stated. Football letters were given to their owners at the close of the season, and consequently will not be included in the ceremonies.

The following cagers won basketball monograms: Fred Erdhaus, John Jennison, Thomas Lacy, Kenneth Nissley, Robert Browning, Lloyd Buchfinck, Russell Fury, Johnny Henry, Leonard Lockhart, Harry Stanley, Clarence Riggs, and manager Fred Pinkston.

Swimming awards will be presented to: Captain Nolan Hasson, Fred Erdhaus, Walker Davis, Bill Dunston, Dave Phoenix, and George Bissett.

Tennis letter winners will include: Chris Ema, Muryl Hallman, Carl Aubrey, Oliver Dwyer, Harris Warren, Bill Damerell, Gorton Davis, George Young and Kenneth Nissley, manager.

The athletes who won track monograms: Frank Boyd, Frank Ochoa, James Noe, Robert Clark, Bill Greschner, Arthur Craft, Robert Reif, George Snockelburg, Albert Parr, Vernon Koepsel, Joe Frias, Inez Granados, Cameron Gillis, Wilburn Anderson, Dave Clark, Willard Luton, Major Anderson, Tom Matzen, Robert Spray, George Griffith, managers, Duncan Clark and Franklin Guthrie.

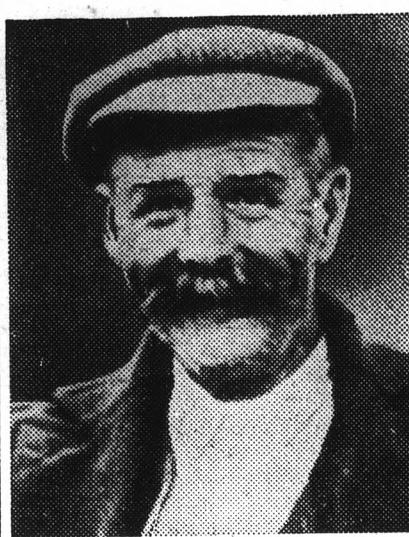

The golfers to be presented the letters will include: Art Anderson, Cliff Lee, Johnny Griset, Warren Kennedy, and Preston Piper.

Dolan stated here this morning that he believed this to be the largest number of awards ever to be presented at one time by the local athletic office.

we were not the originator of the usage of the word 'Padres' in lieu of the official 'Dons.' However, may we close a pleasant year by saying that we think the adoption of that 'moniker' would not be an unwise move.

See you on the Beach.

TORCH BEARER

Greschner Scores
Most Points For
Padre Tracksters

Leading scorer for the 1936 track and field season was Bill Greschner, with a grand total of 66 points in 11 meets, a computation of points this morning reveal. Bill scored points in seven events during the season, the shot put, high hurdles, low hurdles, pole vault, dashes, high jump, and broad jump. His best performance was in the shot put event, where he put the 16 pound pellet 42 feet 8 inches for a new Santa Ana junior college record.

Closely following Bill in points scored for the past season was Frank Boyd, with 55 3-4 points. Boyd was out of two meets with the flu, otherwise he might have been the leading point getter.

Joe Frias scored 38 1-4 points for third spot; Jim Noe had 36 1-20 points; Wilburn Anderson and Bob Reif tied with 35 points; Al Parr, 32 points; Bob Clark, 26 points; Major Anderson, 25 3-4 points; Frank Ochoa, 21 points; Art Craft, 20 1-2 points; Vernon Koepsel, 17 points; Willard Luton, 13 1-4 points; Cameron Gillis, 13 points; Dave Clark, 11 1-4 points; Inez Granados, 10 points; George Griffith, 7 1-2; Bob Spray, 6 1-4 points; Tom Matzen, 4 3-4 points; George Snockelburg, 2 points; Hirota Nitta, 1 1-4 points; and Carl Parr and Franklin Guthrie, 1.

Greschner, a freshman, will be in college here next year and expected to lead the Dons into a high spot in the conference track standings when computation time rolls around again.

Trio Of Wrestlers
Vie For Southland
Honors On June 20

That Santa Ana junior college would be represented in the Southern California Y. M. C. A. wrestling championships at Los Angeles this month was revealed here this morning when three members of the college 'grunt and groan' squad filed their entries at the local Y offices.

The meet, held at the main Y in Los Angeles on June 20, will see Dick Mather go into action in the 175 pound group, Leo Gibbons in the 145 pound class, and Ray 'Dope' Foster in the 158 pound division.

Both Foster and Mather won all-Southern California grappling championships while representing the Santa Ana high school Saints in the prep division last year and are expected to rate highly in this meet.

Life 50 Years Ago Cited

taken of many experiences beyond that of the average man. He was born in Central City, Iowa, the son of Miles McLeod Crookshank, an editor and publisher. He attended business college there preparing to become a banker but never finished school.

"I never had but one career in mind and that was banking," stated Mr. Crookshank when asked if he had ever thought of entering any other profession.

Santa Ana in 1886

It was in 1886, just 50 years ago, that the family decided to move to Santa Ana. The town at that time consisted of around 3000 inhabitants, a few stores, and one banking institution, called the Commercial bank. Mr. Crookshank and his father established a bank at Fourth and West street (later Broadway) where Vandermast clothiers are now located. They called it the First National Bank of Santa Ana. He dimly recalled that he and his father used to sleep nights outside the vault while the building was being erected.

Next the firm moved to where the Bank of America now stands, but not for long. Knowing that the best location in Santa Ana for a bank was at the corner of Fourth and Main, the firm was later moved to the present site. It was in 1927 that the modern, six story building, now standing on the corner, was erected.

County's Largest Bank

Mr. Crookshank was president and chairman of the board from 1916 until his retirement last year. He has seen the bank start from a dubious beginning into a flourishing concern, the largest of its kind in Orange county.

Besides his business career, Mr. Crookshank has had many other interests. Among others he has been the treasurer of the Orange County Tuberculosis association for many years. Last April he was elected president of the California State Tuberculosis association at the convention in Sacramento. This is an honor that has climaxed his long connection with the local organization.

Any Profession Good

Mr. Crookshank has seen many young men begin their business careers during his 50 years in Santa Ana. When asked what profession he thought a young man would have the best chance in today, he replied that it was strictly up to the persons abilities.

"No matter what anyone says there are still opportunities in any business and it is up to the young people to find what they are best fitted for and strive for the top," the banker said as he dismissed the subject and concluded the interview.
